

Forensic economist - SENIOR (head office in Calgary)

Brown Economic Consulting is an economic consulting firm that supplies court-ready reports and expert witness testimony for lawyers and insurers in civil litigation across all provinces and territories in Canada (except Quebec).

Essential characteristics of the job:

- ➔ Using labour market data and Statistics Canada data to construct lifetime wage profiles, inclusive of contingency risks for unemployment and labour force attachment
- ➔ Assessing the impact of the interruption on the claimant's or family's lifetime wages or finances, and writing a report to assess the claimant's losses (if any)
- ➔ Responsible for own files, talking to plaintiffs, liaising with BEC's clients (lawyers or insurers), reviewing junior economists' work, checking calculations & scenarios
- ➔ Writing reports and co-signing reports with President; testify in court on behalf of report or assist President in testifying at court
- ➔ Scheduling reports, intake of potential files, review of existing files, supervising junior economists, and filling in for the Principal

Compulsory Qualifications:

- Master's of arts degree in Economics. Degrees in other specialties are not accepted (e.g., MBA).
- Minimum 5 years, preferably 7 years, of work experience in an economic consulting field, specializing in labour economics, health economics, or macroeconomic forecasting
- Above-average proficiency in MS-Excel and working with spreadsheets in general is required

Compensation matches the applicant's education level, work experience and skill level.
