Brown, C. L. (2001-2003) The Brown Economic Damages NetLetter was launched on November 23, 2001 by Quicklaw (now subsumed into LexisNexis) and published until July 30, 2003 and encompassed 56 editions. The online NetLetter highlighted the court's decision on quantum and discussed the impact of forensic economic evidence (if called) or alternatively the judge's decisions on quantum without the benefit of expert economic evidence. Each edition reviewed 2 to 4 published cases by Quicklaw.

SCHOLARSHIPS/DONATIONS

Ringette Canada – 2002 to 2022 (ongoing). Brown Economic Consulting donates $3,000 per annum to fund two scholarships under the auspices of the “Cara Brown Ringette Scholarship”. The scholarships fund ringette players who play at the most competitive level of ringette available in their province or territory, and concurrently maintain a minimum ‘B’ average at university. For more information, visit www.ringette.ca > Athletes > “Scholarships”.

Project Warmth Society of Alberta – Brown Economic Consulting donates $1,500 per annum in support of the society's mandate to raise funds assisting homeless and underprivileged individuals. As part of this program, underprivileged students are given the opportunity to experience the performing arts by attending a special presentation of Theatre Calgary's “A Christmas Carol”.

Canadian Bar Law for the Future Fund (LFFF) – CBA New Brunswick donated to the LFFF in “recognition of [C. Brown's] services for its Spring 2013 Professional Development Program”.

Brown’s Economic Damages Newsletter – INDEX to editions: 2001 – 2022 (ongoing)

Brown, C.L. (2001 – present). Brown’s Economic Damages Newsletter was launched in 1995. Ms. Brown is the sole author of the monthly newsletter (with few exceptions), which is distributed free of charge to lawyers, insurers, and interested parties corresponding to the release date of Statistics Canada’s Consumer Price Index (“CPI”) and unemployment rate data. More than 250 issues of the newsletter have been published to date.

On the final page of each issue, Brown Economic supplies a chart for inflating non-pecuniary damages by Statistics Canada’s CPI, every year since 1978, using the rolling average method with Canada-wide data.⁷ The conversion of the $100,000 maximum award for non-pecuniary damages, established by the Supreme Court of Canada in 1978, is expressed in current dollars, accounting for inflation from 1978 until the issue date of the newsletter. To update non-pecuniary damages by inflation online, go to www.browneconomic.com > Non-Pecuniary Damages CalculatorTM (free to use). On the final page of each issue, Brown Economic supplies the month-over-month rate of inflation for several Census Metropolitan Areas (“CMA”): Vancouver, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Edmonton, Calgary, Halifax, St. John’s, Saint John, Charlottetown and Canada-wide; and the monthly unemployment rate for the same regions.

⁶ Participated as member of President nominating committee in 2013.

⁷ The “rolling average” method compares the average of the most recent 12 months of data to the average of the 12 months of data prior to the current year. This method ‘smoothes out’ impacts on inflation that are seasonal or anomalous.
